INTRODUCTION

Dear Mum

(You suffered with a Bi-Polar disorder for most of your adult life)

I have a great need to write down the deep feelings I have for the part my Mum played in shaping my life.

As you read on you may question and you may criticize, but hopefully you will understand, they are my feelings only, please respect them.

For a big part of her life my Mum had an illness disorder known as

“Bi-polar or Manic depression”

The illness tends to run in families and appears to have a genetic link in fact this illness is and was prevalent in the Daulton family.

So now what are you thinking?

Some of you will immediately say “oh gosh” I don’t want to know and put this away in the too hard file. Some of you will read on through curiosity and respect and then file it. But I sincerely hope some of you will show a genuine interest and will openly and with deep concern continue on with your learning of this illness.

I do not profess to be an expert on this subject but for my peace of mind I have endeavored to try and understand why my Mums illness had such an effect on my life.

You know, my very good people, for too long the older members of my family and generations before have buried their heads in the sand as soon as someone mentions that one of the family members has a mental disorder. In this case, Mum.

I only discovered that Mum had this illness two years ago and I have continuously asked myself why I had to wait until I was 53 before knowing.

I still don't know if it is a superstitious thing, a pride thing, an afraid of the consequences thing, or just a straight out ignorance thing, that this illness was swept under the carpet and not talked about within the family compound.

Maybe some of you can help me with this one?

My immediate thoughts are that in those days if it was made public the family were put under huge social pressure to put the person out of harm's way, into an institution where as I believe they were put through some very barbaric treatment. Maybe it was a hand down from the war years where you were ordered into secrecy and being so brave and tough you did not talk about emotional things or you were too numb to.

I am not going to walk around with my head in the sand anymore and it is my wish that this problem which has affected all of us who were close to her is discussed out in the open. It will help us all to understand and cope with the next member of our family who might come down with this illness: (My god forbid).

To quote one of my brothers sayings, "what you people fail to realize is", and I quote, Mum did not ask to have this illness and it was very unfair on her but we all must try and learn from this experience and move forward.

You see, I know that behind the shroud of this illness Mum just wanted to be a normal Mum: A Mum who had an individual humor: A Mum who was very loving: A Mum who was very kind and giving: A Mum who had disappointments and regrets: A Mum who got angry and sad: But above all else a Mum who loved her family. Feelings, I believe that most of us share.

All that Mum ever wished for in return was love and understanding. But because her illness was never discussed and because the very negative part of her illness, the nastiness, we did not want to know, and so Mum died believing she was not loved. For myself, that is very sad and although I came close to accepting, the problem was never resolved.

We must all learn from this experience and try in the future to resolve problems in our lives before it is too late. The key to that is communication and having a complete open mind on all the variances life may throw at us.

Mum, I did love you and I am so sorry I never got around to telling you that before you died. Your illness kept getting in the way.

EFFECTS ON MY LIFE

I have given this issue some very serious thought and wondered if I should share this with you.

It was with sad observation during Mums funeral (before and after) how noticeable it was to see how the consequences of Mums illness had touched on so many people. Those observations have given me the courage to share my experience with you with hope that it just might help someone else now and in the future.

Some of you may think I am just looking for an excuse to cover up the mistakes I have made in my life. Others might think I am on a guilt trip. Some might think I want people to feel sorry for me. But some or maybe all will understand. And, "hey Guys" whatever you think is fine by me. That is your choice.

I repeat these are my feelings only. Please respect them.

Parents play a big part in our lives. They condition us and have expectations of us: Not only our parents but generations of parents before them. They initially give us life, they nurture us, they love us, they discipline and support us, and as we work our way through our teens they try and teach us to be responsible for ourselves and others. But the worst thing that parents can do I believe is to make us responsible for them and their problems. It is like Mums illness, we did not ask for it.

Although they may not have realized it at the time both of my Parents and I say both because my Dad had his problems too, (I believe from the horrors of war), made me responsible for them and their problems at a very early age.

I felt responsible for running the farm when Dad was off on his booze binges his way of shutting out the nightmares: I felt responsible for running the house when Mum was unable to: I felt responsible for my younger brother, especially when the nasty part of mums illness was running rampant around the house: I felt responsible to the point of being a referee after Dads patience had worn down and he would finally stick up for himself. I felt responsible for trying to keep the family together.

The effect that had on my life amongst other things is that I was drawn to people who also had problems and I would become responsible for their problems as well. And so I grew up carrying my Dads problem but mostly my Mums problem around for years and feeling totally responsible for them.

I also found it very hard to say “no” to proposals which for me were not right for me.

And so because of these unfortunate events in my childhood I completely lost my whole identity. Roger lost Roger.

Mums illness changed the personality I was born with. When you have lived for nearly twenty years in a certain environment you become conditioned to that environment, you don't know anything else. And so living with someone with a Bipolar disorder you take on the symptoms of this illness: The low self-esteem and negativity of the lows of this illness, the frustration, the aggressiveness, the anger, the loud, the lashing out when feeling trapped and the abusive part of the highs of the illness. Deep down I knew that this was not me at all and although I was able to escape for short periods of time to do my own thing I always felt responsible for the problems at home and so I was always drawn back to that environment.

To follow my Dads path it was much easier to find solace and peace in a bottle, party all night and not go home.

While growing up and through my life I have been very fortunate to have been invited into and share other peoples family lives. Because of this contact I always wondered why my family situation was so different and why I was so different.

People would say that I had an inferior complex others would say I was carrying a grudge on my shoulders some would say that I kept running off in search for something: Well all of those things are correct. I love adventures and because of that love it took me away from my parent's problems which helped me rediscover myself and my personality.

There are people out there I am discovering who will never find peace because of the debilitating effect Bipolar has had on their lives and just recently I to crashed with depression (not Bipolar) and now to some extent I now know what my mum must have gone through. Fortunately for me I have access to modern help and medicines and with care of myself I will beat it.

I have only touched briefly on some of the effects Mums Bipolar illness has had on my life and I hope that I can always be around for anyone who wishes to revisit this and discuss this subject more.

Thank you for your time, mine is free.

Roger Mold.

BORN: 29 DECEMBER 1883 AT LAWN HOUSE, SOUTH DOCK, POPLAR, LONDON, ENGLAND

DIED: IN AUCKLAND 26 AUGUST 1946

BURIED: MT WESLEY RETUNED SERVICES ASSOCIATION CEMETERY, DARGAVILLE

MARRIED: BERTHA JANE DAULTON 7 APRIL 1912

AT ACCOMMODATION HOUSE WAINGAKE GISBORNE

Your Dad was the black sheep of the family. He was expected to follow his father's footsteps into the Royal British Navy but instead joined up with the Merchant Navy where he initially spent his early years circumnavigating the World.

On leaving the Merchant Navy (the story goes he jumped ship but he actually deserted in 1904) he settled in Gisborne where he owned and operated a hairdressing business. After marrying Bertha Jane Daulton he moved too Tokamaru Bay and there started up another hairdressing business, a billiard saloon and a family. During the year of 1916 he enlisted into the New Zealand Army and served time in France rising in rank to Lance Corporal. He was gassed in the trenches in France with damage to his lungs, losing the use of one, a handicap he would carry for the rest of his life. After the war he was always on a war pension and would continually need 6 monthly check-ups in Auckland.

On his return to New Zealand he and his war friend Ted Tier moved to Dargaville and took up a block of rough land at Hoanga: After a lot of hard work they turned it into a high producing dairy farm.

Note: At some stage the farm must have been split up with the Tier family.

Eventually he retired with his wife to 23 Jervious St Dargaville. One share milker was retained on the farm. He took an active part in Local bodies and was the President of the Northern Wairoa Returned Service Men's Association from 1940 to 1945 and was made a gold star member in 1945. A few years later they shifted to Auckland where he lived out the remainder of his life. After his wife passed on the farm was sold by the family trust to his son Maurice who by this time was also share milking on the farm.

BRITISH ROYAL NAVY

Your grandfather 'William F Snowden' at the age of thirteen initially did his Navy cadetship on the Britannia from June 1859-March 1860 and then on the good ship Donegal: by the age of 20 he was Lieutenant on H.M.S. Wasp from 23 Dec 1865- 22 April 1868.

By the age of 25 he was Lieutenant on H.M.S. Crocodile. Later in his career during 1876 he would become Commander for a short period on H.M.S. Spiteful in the Congo River while hunting for pirates: He was mentioned in despatches.

On the 5 March 1879 he was reprimanded in front of a Naval Court for standing by his crew during a confrontation with the Commander of the ship HMS Duke Of Wellington. He was posted ashore to the position of Dock Master at South Docks East End London. Finally, disillusioned with the Royal Navy he retired on his own account 23 June 1880 on a retirement package of 155 pounds, 2 shillings and 6 pence per year.²

This ship was fitted out at Portsmouth in November, 1863, and had been nearly four and a half years in commission, during which time she had traversed 102,000 miles, and performed various important services.

Appointed to the East Indian Station, she has been specially employed in the suppression of the slave trade on the East Coast of Africa, and had been instrumental in effecting the liberation of some 500 slaves, taken from dhows intercepted by the ship and her boats.

The Arab crews of these vessels seldom offered any resistance, on one occasion; however, there was a most determined hand-to-hand encounter in the middle of the night between the ship's boats and a dhow.

The English numbered four officers and 20 men, against 76 Arabs. They succeeded in making the capture, though not before one man had been killed and three officers and 11 men wounded.

For their services on this occasion the two lieutenants in charge of the boats were promoted to the rank of commander. ONE OF THESE WAS LIEUTENANT SNOWDEN: The prize money resulting from the various captures, after paying all expenses, left about 10,500 pounds to be distributed among the officers and crew, and it is satisfactory to know that the whole of this was paid over before the ship's company.

Another piece of good fortune - which befell them, was the salvage of a valuable cargo of ivory from the merchant ship Newah, wrecked on Latham

Island, off the Coast of Africa. The property saved amounting in value to 19,000 pounds. Great was their disappointment when they learnt that the authorities at home would only allow a claim for 2,500 pounds to be preferred.

In August of 1866 the Wasp and the Satellite under the command of Capt. Bedingfield, of the Wasp were sent to punish the natives of the Nicobar Islands for the murder of the shipwrecked crews of several merchant ships.

On their return from this expedition the Wasp quelled a riot among the Chinese in Penang.

When the report of Dr. Livingstone's murder came in January, 1867, the Wasp took Dr. Kirk and the political agent at Zanzibar to Quiloa (the great inland slave mart) to endeavour to ascertain its truth, but, as is well known, without success.

Of the original complement of 175 men who went out in the ship only seven officers and 22 men returned in her, many having died or been invalided home, and many transferred to other ships.

The ship had been under the command of three separate captains and three first-lieutenants during the commission, Capt. Bedingfield, her last commander, having been appointed in December, 1865. She has been throughout - in terms which both nautical and land men well understand - a "happy ship" more especially under Capt. Bedingfield's command.

Following is a news clip From “The Illustrated London News, May 1, 1870” which includes the Crocodile and the part she played with the migration of people;

The Illustration on our front page shows the scene at Portsmouth, on Monday week, at the embarkation of some of the discharged workmen of the Admiralty dockyards, with their wives and families, on board her Majesty's screw troop-ship Crocodile Captain G. W. Watson, for conveyance to Canada. All the day, men from the Portsmouth dockyard, with their wives and children, were passing to and fro between the dockyard gates and the ship. At the gangway all embarkation papers were given up by the emigrants, who were then passed on board and numbered off into messing and sleeping berths, This being done, the cares of the emigrants, up to the moment of the ship starting on her voyage, were confined to the stowing away of their luggage in their berths and saying “goodbye” to relatives and friends. At 2.40 p.m. a special train from Woolwich, consisting of six passenger-carriages and three luggage vans and brake belonging to the South-Eastern Railway Company, arrived in Portsmouth dockyard, via the Mid-Sussex and South Coast lines, with the intending emigrants from Woolwich and Deptford. The train drew up alongside the Warrior dock, where the engine which had drawn it down from Woolwich was detached, and one of Aveling and Porter's small traction-engines, belonging to the superintending engineering department of the yard, was substituted for it, and drew the train over the sharply-curved line of rails leading down to the jetty, alongside with the Crocodile was moored. The transfer of the people from the railway carriages to the troop-ship was easily managed, without the slightest trouble or confusion. The emigrants on board the ship were received by Mr Murdoch and another gentleman from the Emigration Board, and by the Rev. E. P. Grant, the Vicar of Portsmouth, Rear-Admiral Chads, and other gentlemen who are members of the Emigrants' (Portsmouth) Relief Fund Committee; Captain Phipps, a member of the Emigrants' (Woolwich and Deptford) Relief Fund Committee, accompanied the train down from Woolwich and superintended the embarkation of the men, women, and children, with their effects. Vice-Admiral Sir George Hope, Port Admiral and Naval Commander-in-Army at Portsmouth; Rear-Admiral Mends, Admiralty Director of Transports; and Rear-Admiral George G. Wellesley, superintendent of Portsmouth Yard, were also present.

NOTES

Val and I visited the docks or the “Isle of Dogs” while in England, 1992. It is an amazing area being developed with residential right beside the docks and canals. Seeing the old cranes still standing by the dock one could imagine the hustle and the bustle as the old sailing ships came to and fro.

SOME INFORMATION ABOUT THE ISLE OF DOGS

There is no doubt that the Isle of Dogs is an unusual place with a history to match: A history that is closely entwined with the fortunes of the Port and City of London and the River Thames. British foreign policy in the 18th century brought ships and cargoes from all parts of the world pouring into the capital and it was to accommodate the huge quantities of rum and sugar arriving from the west Indies that London's first enclosed wet docks and bonded warehouses were built here in 1802 across uninhabited pasture land where previously cattle had been fattened for City banquets. Shipyards and related industries were established on the river bank. The ship building fell into decline in the 1860's but in that decade the mill wall docks were opened to handle imports of grain and timber. Other industries replaced the shipyards attracted by the financial and handling services provided by the City and Port. The docks and factories closedown during the 1960's and 70's matching the decline of London as a Port and as a manufacturing city. There was a period of haunting silence of still waters and rusting cranes of abandoned sites fenced by corrugated iron sheets decorated with graffiti. But within a few short years following the creation of the Enterprise Zone an extraordinary transformation had indeed taken place under the direction of the development corporation. The demand is not now for ships but for office space to accommodate the eastward march of the City Of London. Casting long shadows over nearby council estates, glistening towers glass and steel are rising from the mud to mark a new phase in the history of the Isle of the Dogs.

HISTORY OF RAMSGATE

Ramsgate began as a fishing and farming hamlet. Ramsgate as a name has its earliest reference as Hraefn's ate, or cliff gap, later to be rendered 'Ramisgate' or 'Remmesgate' around 1225 and 'Ramesgate' from 1357. The Viking leaders Hengest and Horsa landed in the 5th century. The Christian missionary St. Augustine landed in Ramsgate in 597 which mark the beginning of Christianity in England.

Ramsgates harbour is a defining characteristic of the town. The construction of Ramsgate Harbour began in 1749 and was completed in about 1850. The Harbour has the unique distinction of being the only Royal Harbour in the United Kingdom. Because of its proximity to mainland Europe, Ramsgate was a chief embarkation point both during the Napoleonic Wars and for the Dunkirk evacuation in 1940.

In 1901, the Isle of Thanet saw the introduction of an electric tram service which was one of the few inter-urban tramways in Britain. The towns of Ramsgate, Margate and Broadstairs were linked by 11 miles of track.

In 1915-1916 early aircraft began to use the open farmlands at Manston as a site for emergency landings. The location near the Kent coast gave Manston some advantages over the other previously established aerodromes. By 1917 the Royal Flying Corps was well established and taking an active part in the defense of England. As RAF Manston the aerodrome played an important role in the Second World War and is now called Kent International Airport.

GEORGE AND DIANE SNOWDEN FROM YORKSHIRE TO RAMSGATE

YOUR GREAT GREAT GRANDDAD

MY 3 X GRANDFATHER

Mum: George of Ramsgate has been a bit of a puzzle to find out whether or not he was related to the Snowdens of Ripon in Yorkshire but due to some simple observations of the coincidences of family names and recent information I am convinced he was.

He has ancestors remembered inside the Ripon Cathedral with others in the enclosed graveyard. Your granddaughter Johanna visited in 2013 and took some amazing photos.

George's marriage to Diane Grove links us with the Harcourt family of which we have their records going back to 900 AD. They were very upper crust people of Nobility so you can rest easy now knowing that your opportunity to be a lady of class was only thwarted by a geographical change instigated by your dad.

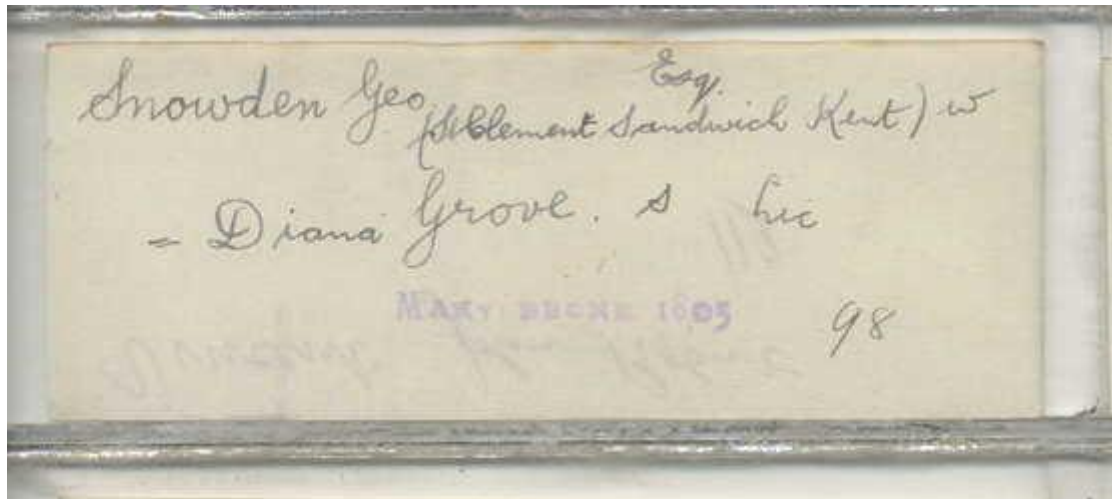

The link with the ged-com tree is "Louisa Sophia Charlotte Harcourt" who married Edward Hillersdon they had a child Louisa Hillersdon who married Silvanus Grove, they had a child Diane Grove who married George Snowden.

Note: The names "George" and "Mary" and the years match an inscription at Ripon Cathedral and Mary Northon (or Norton/Northern) Ripon Cathedral has tombstones with these people.

THOMAS HG SNOWDEN IS THE SON OF GEORGE AND DIANE. HE WAS A SOLICITOR

Mum, as I have very few official records for this George some of the following information could be treated as conjecture only. The few official records I have do point us to Yorkshire: along with them and my gut feeling is this George is our Surgeon man...

Married Diane Grove Feb 14 1805

At St Mary Marylebone Road

Marylebone London

The link with the ged-com tree is "Louisa Sophia Charlotte Harcourt" Who married Edward Hillersdon they had a child Louisa Hillersdon who married Silvanus Grove, they had a child Diane Grove who married George Snowden.

George was probably, initially, a surgeon for the East India Company in London he also practiced at Deal, Sandwich as well as Ramsgate.

CHILDREN OF GEORGE SNOWDEN AND DIANA GROVE ARE...

NOTE: THOMAS HODGES GROVE SNOWDEN IS THE SON OF GEORGE AND DIANE. HE WAS A SOLICITOR: HIS SON WAS NORTHING WADDLE SNOWDEN WHO IS THE KEY NAME ATTACHING OUR THREADS FROM KENT TO YORKSHIRE

4 THE SNOWDEN FAMILY TREE

Hi Sweetheart,

Our George and Diane had a son called Northing and in the following tree for Thomas at Whitecliffe Ripon about 1660 the name Northing is in nearly every generation. Northing is a very uncommon name me thinks and is most definitely a family name. You are on their turf sweetheart. Northon became Northing.

Notes:

THE FOLLOWING INFORMATION FROM TONY IS ANOTHER EXAMPLE OF OUR FAMILY TREE: REMEMBER THOUGH THAT ONE HAS TO BE VERY CAREFUL WHERE ONE GETS INFORMATION FROM. OFFICIAL ONLY...

YORKSHIRE

Notes;

Just a note to say thanks for the info you sent. The Harcourt connection is certainly historically interesting and I didn't know about it. Your data has two potential pairs for the parents of the George Snowden who married Diana Grove. My guess for the parents is: George Snowden 1734 – 1800 and Mary Northon 1746 – 1821. The names "George" and "Mary" and the years match an inscription at Ripon Cathedral and Mary Northon (or Norton) seems to bring the name "Waddilove" to the mix, a name which is repeated among the Snowdens of Ramsgate.

Hi Roger,
The link with gedcom tree is "Louisa Sophia Charlotte Harcourt"!!! who married Edward Hillersdon they had a child Louisa Hillersdon who married Silvanus Grove, they had a child Diane Grove who married George Snowden!!!!!!
Have amended-ish Will, have attached.
Bye "Sir" Roger Regards
Tony

It was known in the family that the Hudson's were boat builders in England: this would seem to be correct as the following story indicates;

Around 1868 a ketch was built by Miles, with the assistance of his brother-in-law William Sim, who ran a ferry at the mouth of the Mohaka River. The vessel was constructed on the bank of the Taurakaetai just above the present bridge at Wallingford. The "Mary Ann Hudson", as it was named, was floated down to the sea during a flood. Its launching must have been quite an event in the community in those days. In "New Zealand Shipwrecks" it is described as a ketch of 15 tons. Till around the early 1940's, the ramp from which it was launched could be seen from where the new bridge now stands. We do not know what timber was used in construction. The vessel traded between Napier, Mohaka and Wairoa under a certified Captain until it was wrecked off Mohaka bar in 1877. A family story has it that it was originally built to take supplies to John Sim of Mohaka, Hudson's brother-in-law.

PASSAGE FROM PLYMOUTH TO ADELAIDE IN 77 DAYS⁶

Note: 1862: On board were Margaret Sim and her sister Jane. Margaret would marry Miles Hudson in Aotea. They were your great grandparents.

One of the very few big overseas ships owned in Auckland in the early days was the barque Constance, which belonged to the Circular Saw Line (Henderson and Macfarlane)

In 1862 the Constance, in command of Captain Reid, made a voyage from London to Wellington, sailing on the 11th August and arriving on December 12th, after an uneventful and protracted passage of 123 days. She brought out 40 passengers

The barque Constance, from London, arrived in port last night, after a lengthened passage of 120 days. She has 16 cabin and 26 steerage passengers, a cargo of general merchandise, and is consigned to Messrs. A. P. Stuart and Co. She left Gravesend on the 12th August, crossed the line on the 22nd September, and sighted the Snare on the 6th December. Experienced head winds most of the passage out.—Independent, Dec. 13. [In the passenger list we observe the name of an old settler, Mr. Wm. Faunin, and of his family.]

Her Majesty's s.s. Harrier, 17 guns, Commander Sullivan, from Manakau, arrived in this harbour yesterday afternoon. She sailed from the Manakau on the 9th inst., and intended to call at Taranaki; but on arriving off the town, it blew so strong, that the Harrier came on to this Port. General Cameron and aide-de-camp, are passengers by her. We understand that General Cameron has come on a tour of inspection, and after reviewing the troops here, will return to Auckland, calling at Taranaki on his way thither.—Independent, Dec 13.

SAILED.

THE Wonga Wonga left Wellington on Saturday at half-past 6 p.m., and anchored in the roadstead on Sunday at half-past 9. She was 3½ hours landing cargo at Castle Point, so that the run just occupied 24 hours. During part of Sunday the little steamer was running at the rate of 13 knots. The Wonga was last from Dunedin, which port she left on the 9th inst. Mr. Duncan is a passenger by the Wonga Wonga for the purpose of arranging with the Provincial Government as to terms of subsidy, and also with the view of appointing an agent. We observe that a new and very tasteful flag, the design of Capt. Renner, is now displayed by the boats of the company. As will be seen from advertisement, this favorite steamer will return to Wellington on the afternoon of Thursday next.

The Surprise left Lyttelton on Tuesday the 9th inst. and has had strong head winds and variable weather during the whole passage. Anchored in the Bay yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, and proceeded for Auckland the same evening.

The Queen, hence on Wednesday last at 2 p.m., arrived in Wellington on Thursday at 6:30 p.m. Capt. Pole reported very heavy weather off Cape Turnagain. She steamed for the South at 3 p.m. on the 12th.

IDA ZEIGLER 1863 AND 1867⁷

1867: Sailing from Gravesend on the 11 of July 1876 arriving in Auckland 16 October 1867.

On board was your great, great grandmother Margaret Noble Sim who arrived onto these shores from Scotland. She was sixty.

On board with her were her son William aged 26, Margaret his wife, 23, and their baby Margaret one and half years old.

A family story has it that Margaret Noble Sims husband, Alexander Sim, was a shipping or marine inspector, who was killed when struck by a falling mast or spar at Edinburgh docks in Scotland

Thomas Daulton Snr

Your Great grandparents on your Granddad Daulton's side were.

Thomas Daulton Snr

Born: 1811 circa Parish of Grange, Youghal County Cork Ireland

Died: 10 July 1867 Whangarei

Married: Ann O'Brien in 1833 in Dublin: She was born 1810 Cavanagh Ireland.

Died 8 March 1877 Mangere, Otahuhu.

Thomas and Ann had seven children. Two were born in Ireland; two were born in Cape Town South Africa and three in Auckland.

(See Steve Daultons research).

Thomas was a private in the 27th foot of The Irish Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers and based in Cape Town where two of his children were born. At that time there was conflict with the Boers in Natal. He was 5 foot 11 inches, dark brown hair, brown eyes, and pale complexion, of a very good character.

Thomas and his family came out of army retirement from Glasgow as a brick layer to join "The Royal New Zealand Fencibles" arriving in Auckland on the Berhampore 12 2 1847. They would settle at Onehunga and Otahuhu. He held a licence to graze animals in 1853 for Onehunga. He was employed as a Mason in 1854. Thomas died 1867 aged 57 yrs. of cancer in the neck.

Thomas was given an army grant of 100 acres at Tokatoka near the Northern Wairoa River but died before he could settle on it. The family sold this later.

THE GOOD SHIP BERHAMPORE 1849⁸

Note: On board were Thomas and Ann Daulton and their children my great, great grandparents. Thomas was a soldier with the 7 Military detachments of THE ROYAL FENCIBLES to come to Auckland. In time Thomas would own land in the Northern Wairoa districts with descendants living in the Kaihu River Valley.

⁸ FROM DAULTON FAMILY HISTORY COLLECTION OWNED BY R MOLD

The Berhampore was the seventh transporter to be fitted out for the task of conveying 'The Fencibles' to Aotea, sailing from Tilbury docks, London on the 7 March 1849, with eighty Fencibles, (The Fencibles were made up of retired or pensioned British army personal) sixty-seven women and 101 children. Their quarters on board were small and cramped. There were no cabins or dormitories. Each family was expected to squeeze into an area of ten feet square with just a blanket hung around their space for privacy.

The Berhampore was under the command of Captain T. B. Smith. The route the ship took was to cross the Bay of Biscay with its rough conditions, causing many of the passengers to be seasick. Dr Carr was the ship Surgeon; his hospital assistant was Alexander Bonner. They also had help from Nurse Esther Riley.

The Berhampore sailed south along the African Coast, making use of the Northeast trade winds. During this part of the voyage through the tropics the emigrants experienced wonderful sunrises and sunsets. The days were hot and life on board was relatively pleasant.

On reaching the Cape the passengers experienced the wrath of the climatic conditions with the roaring forties, high winds that set the sailing ships racing across the high seas. Fresh food was exhausted and dry biscuits and less appetising food was now being consumed. The families cooked their food in a tiny galley with provisions supplied by the ship. Washing was done in salt water and this had to be done frequently as the families were only allowed a few possessions with them due to lack of storage space, the bulk of their belongings were in the hold in storage with limited accessibility throughout the voyage.

There were a lot of children on board. Captain Smith was a man of great kindness and foresight, as he had arranged delicacies for the nursing mothers, as well as toys, concerts and entertainment for the children during the voyage.

On the Berhampore Catherine Holland was paid as schoolmistress and matron. For adult entertainment, those that played in the fife and drum band provided music for dancing and singing on the poop deck when the weather was pleasant and calm. On the inclement days when they had to stay below decks, there was card playing, and the harmonica to provide a tune to while away the hours.

Sailing on for day after day the journey would seem to be never ending. The Southern Cross constellation seen in the sky for the first time brought new hope and excitement to the families on board.

The Berhampore made no stops on its voyage to Aotea. After three months at sea land was sighted, the North Cape of Aotea, a rugged bush-clad Coastline. An overwhelming sense of excitement must have spread through the families on board.

The Barque Sir George Seymour arrived in Auckland 26 November 1847.

She was just one of ten ships to bring the contingent of Royal Fencibles to Auckland for Governor Grey's armed forces.

OBITUARIES

KILLED IN ACTION

William Hugh Snowden

William Hugh (Bill) Snowden, who was killed in action on October 25, 1942, was in his 23rd year. Born at Gisborne, he was the elder son of Mr and Mrs F. H. Snowden, of Hoanga. He received his education at the Graham's Fern and Dargaville Primary schools, and subsequently joined his father in farming pursuits. He left New Zealand with the 5th Echelon of the Second N.Z.E.F. and was attached to the 21st Auckland Infantry Battalion. Incidentally, he was the fourth boy to enlist for the present war from the Northern Wairoa, but being then only aged 19 years he had to stand aside until he had attained the requisite age.

In the field of sport he was particularly successful at Rugby football, and he started playing for the Dargaville XV when weighing 5 stone 10 pounds. In the year 1939/40 he captained the Northern Wairoa junior reps. He was also an ardent member of the Hoanga Cricket Club.

A very popular young man's life has ended gloriously----he has given his all for his fellow men.

This is to certify that Miss Trixie Snowden was in our employ for approximately five years up till 1942 when she left us of her own accord to better her employment. During the period she was with us she graduated from Office Girl to Typiste and General Clerk and was responsible for several years for the routine of our Court work. At all times she displayed qualities of industry intelligence and neatness of a good average standard and we can confidently recommend her to any position of a like nature.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

This is to certify that Miss. F.B. Snowden was employed by me for a period of approximately six months for the purpose of assisting in the conduct of the 1938 General Election in this district.

I found Miss. Snowden to be an industrious and efficient clerk and one who has the capacity for quickly adapting herself to any class of work.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

This is to certify that Miss T. Snowden was employed by this Company as Senior Typist for a period of 15 months. Miss Snowden had many other office duties to perform besides that of typist, many of them of an important nature, all of which were executed in a very excellent manner. Miss Snowden was very industrious and in all her duties displayed reliability, conscientiousness and loyalty which made her a valuable member of my staff, and her services to the Company were greatly appreciated. Miss Snowden terminated her employment with the Company on account of being manpowered to Pukekohe, but as her parents are leaving the district no objection or appeal was made on her behalf. Any prospective employer would find in Miss. Snowden an extremely efficient, reliable and loyal employee.

Yours faithfully,
